LIVE POLL RESULTS

What schools told us

NCCD Inclusive Education & Practice Symposium
Tuesday 17 November 2026 · Online via Microsoft Teams

During the symposium, attendees answered 10 live Slido polls about how their schools manage NCCD evidence, review and governance. Between 47 and 66 people responded to each question. Here's what they told us.

KEY FINDINGS

9% could produce all required NCCD evidence immediately if audited tomorrow

54% spend more than four weeks preparing for the annual NCCD submission

52% say staff knowledge and consistency is their biggest NCCD challenge

45% haven't had an independent review of their NCCD processes in the past 12 months

56% are unsure whether their School Board receives NCCD compliance reporting

79% say moving to year-round NCCD management is extremely or very important

POLL 10 · 50 VOTES

Following today's symposium, what is the one area your school is most likely to prioritise?

WHAT THIS TELLS US

1. Evidence is there, but not always ready. Most schools could produce their evidence within hours or days, but only 9% could do it immediately.
2. Preparation takes too long. More than half spend over four weeks preparing for the annual submission, and time and workload is the second biggest challenge.
3. Assurance has gaps. Nearly half haven't had an independent review this year, and most aren't sure what their Board sees on NCCD risk.
4. Schools want a year-round approach. 79% see it as a priority, and reviewing existing processes is the number one focus for 2027.
